STATE'S MILL FAILS TO WIN IN NEW MARTS

Unable to Break in Successfully in Out-of-State Market After 2 Years

MEETING COMPETITION

Mill's Loss Now Shown To Be $635,000 in Report of Auditor

North Dakota's state-owned, state-operated flour mill at Grand Forks, after almost two years of operation, has not been able to break into markets outside the state of North Dakota with sufficient force to put the mill on its feet financially, it is shown in the report of O. B. Lund, accountant for the state board of auditors, in a report submitted to the board, as required by law, on the mill's operation from January 1 to 30, 1924. The total loss shown by the auditor is $635,157.81, which corresponds closely to the loss shown in a report of the board of managers as of the same date, made public.

The significant feature as seen in the latest accountant's report on the mill, as seen in some quarters, is the inability of the mill to win its way against competition of privately-owned mills in other states. Apparently the mill has succeeded fairly well in establishing markets in North Dakota, but the difficulties outside the state more than off-set the success within the state.

Most of the big flour milling institutions of the country have grown from small beginnings, enlarging as their slowly built-up business made possible. The North Dakota state mill, a fairly large institution, however has been confronted with the difficulty of establishing a market for a big output from the start. It had been stated in the past by those connected with the state mill that the only hope for success was in a large output, because of the investment involved.

Heroic measures have been used by the mill management in seeking to establish out-of-state markets, it is indicated. The sales reports show flour sold in many states in the union and in foreign countries. The output is so large that markets must be found outside the state. In apparently seeking to break into out-of-state markets, the mill management has priced its flour, said to be of high quality, low enough to meet all competition, but has not won its way to a point where it can raise its prices to yield a profit.

Accountant Lund, in his report, points out that flour sold outside the state at lower prices than within the state, this, it is understood, being considered a necessity in establishing markets. Several comparisons are given by the accountant. He shows that on June 24 the mill sold flour in Fargo, North Dakota, for $8.10 a barrel while on June 10 it sold flour at Fort Dodge, Iowa, at $7.00 a barrel. On June 27 it sold flour in Bismarck at $8.04 a barrel and on June 16 it sold flour in Waterloo, Iowa, at $7.25 per barrel. Other comparisons show a lower price obtained for flour outside of North Dakota than in North Dakota. Accountant Lund questions the practice, saying: "In going over the sale price of mill products, it is found that they are sold at a lower price outside of the state than in North Dakota. This is a trade custom but it might be questioned why North Dakota people are not permitted to purchase their flour from their mill as cheap as people in other states."

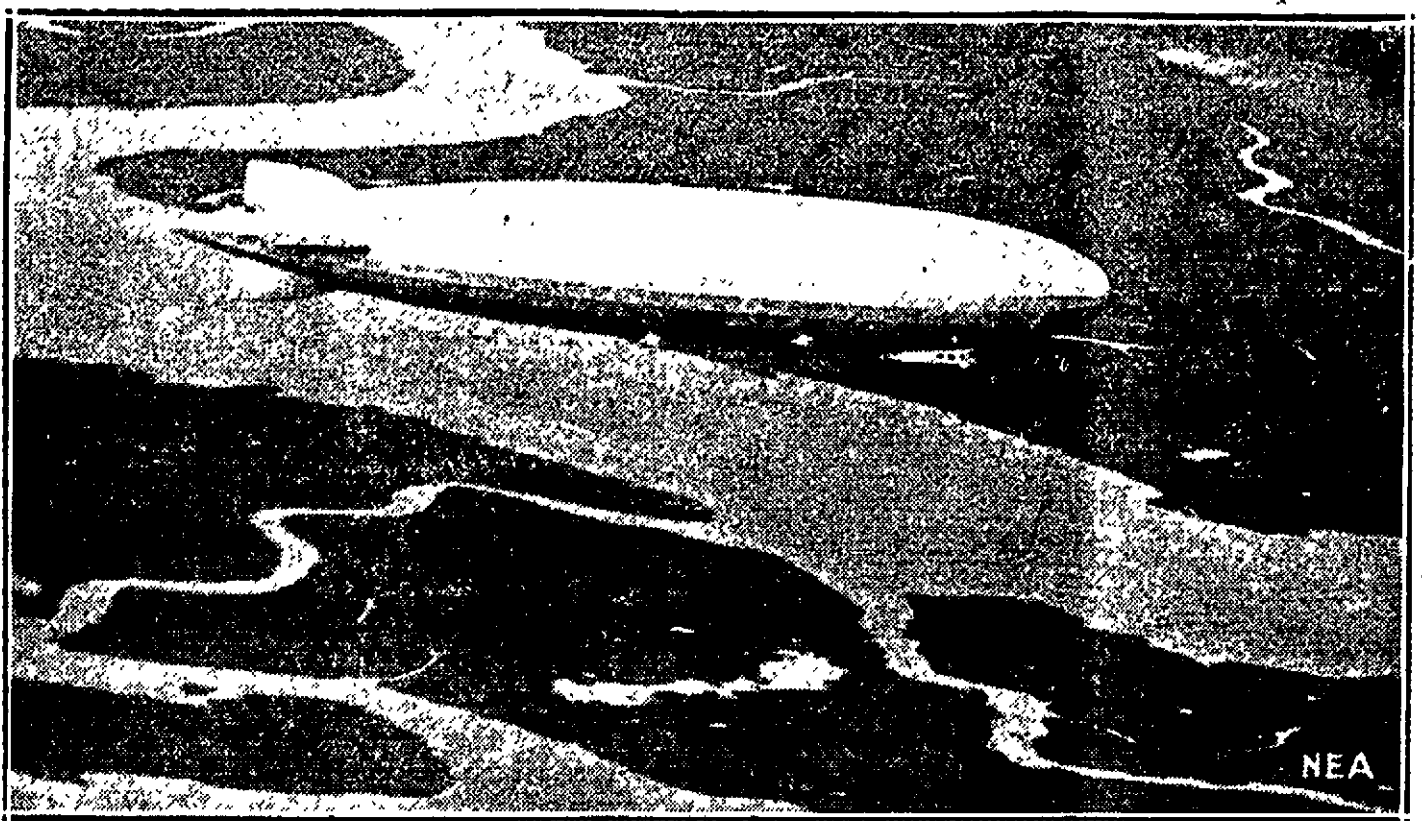

The accountant's report also shows heavy operations on the part of the mill in an endeavor to produce enough flour to reduce its overhead expenses to a point where it will show a profit. The mill has failed to do this, however, the loss from January 1, 1924 to June 30, 1924, being shown as $126,779.01 in operating expense, with a total loss for the six months period, including depreciation and interest, of $309,158.91.

Division Operations

For convenient comparison Mr. Lund divided the operations and costs for the three audit periods. During the period October 23, 1922, the beginning of operations, to July 31, 1923, the mill had an operating loss of 48 cents a barrel. From August 1, to Dec. 31, 1923, an operating profit of 10 1/2 cents per barrel, while the period covered by the present report—Jan. 1, 1923 to June 30, 1924—shows an operating loss of 29 6/10 cents per barrel. The total loss, adding interest, for the respective periods is shown as: 66 7/10 cents per barrel, 20 3/10 cents per barrel and 72 4/10 cents per barrel, or an average loss of 54 6/10 cents per barrel since the operation of the mill.

The establishment of the full loss of $635,157.81, is to some extent, arbitrary, the accountant setting up amounts for depreciation, reserve for bad debts, etc. One accountant, who has seen the Lund report, holds that the depreciation charges are too low. The depreciation charged on mill machinery is at the rate of 5 percent a year, power house machinery 4 percent a year, while it is asserted by another accountants that on the basis of a 10 hour a day operation the machinery should be depreciated 6 percent a year.

Arthur Galaid, photographer for NEA Service and The Tribune, took the picture from an airplane high above the ZR-3, then dropped down to the airmail field at Mineola and the picture was started on its way to Bismarck by airmail.

REOPENING OF BANKS IS HELP TO DEPOSITORS

Those Having Claims on Other Closed Banks Gain By This Work of State

CLAIMS ARE MADE

The policies of the Guaranty Fund Commission and the State Banking Department during the past year and a half, the most crucial period in the history of the banking business in North Dakota, has reduced the liabilities of the Depositors Guaranty Fund Commission by a total of $4,228,104.84, through the reopening of banks, in the belief of officials responsible for the policies.

It is pointed out that each time a bank closes, the deposits become a liability of the Depositors Guaranty Fund Commission, and since that commission has not, and will not for years, have sufficient funds to pay all depositors, the reopening of one of these closed banks increases the dividend it is possible to pay to the depositors of banks that cannot be reopened.

The Depositors Guaranty Fund Commission and State Banking Department, with faith in the future of the state and acting under the bank administration act of July 1, 1923, endeavored to keep many banks open and to reopen many closed banks in the state, having deposits totalling $4,228,104.84 have reopened for office. Several more banks are scheduled to reopen within the next month, so that it is expected that within a short time banks having total deposits of over $5,000,000 will have reopened. With the liability of the Guaranty Fund Commission to depositors of closed banks reduced this much, it will be able to pay larger dividends as assessments on open banks are received.

The bank administration act of July 1, 1923, made it possible for the Commission to use some of its funds in an effort to keep banks open or to reopen banks. The commission, according to C. B. McMillan, a member, felt that under the law it could not use all of the funds. But it applied enough, in his opinion, to make possible the reopening of many banks and the keeping open of many. While virtually all of the Depositors Guaranty Fund money so invested was amply secured and is being returned, the depositors of closed banks would have gained if the commission had lost hundreds of thousands of dollars, it is pointed out. They gain through the reduction of the liability to depositors and advancing the time of payment to them.

FIRPO-FULTON GO PLANNED

New York, Oct. 17.—Although watching the outcome of legal proceedings in which Luis Firpo is involved, Tex Rickard is going ahead with plans for a match at Madison Square Garden in November between Firpo and Fred Fulton, the Minneapolis plasterer. The promoter is desirous of staging the contest on Nov. 14 or 28.

Another South American heavyweight, Quintin Romero of Chile, probably will appear on the same card with Jim Maloney of Boston, an opponent in the semi-final.

BIG POTATOES EXHIBITED

Bismarck is in the land of the "big baked potato."

W. N. Griffin displayed at The Tribune two potatoes, which are samples of his garden crop. One of them weighed 39 ounces and the other 25 ounces. He got 13 big ones in one hill.

Mr. Griffin said he had 25 bushels, without a blemish on any one of them. He did not water his garden and ploughed it but once.

PLANS MADE TO TURN BANK TO ITS EMPLOYEES

Bank of Italy, Largest in California, To Be Given Over-Under Plan

San Francisco, Calif., Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Twenty years ago A. P. Giannini, commission merchant, gave his business, then one of the largest of its kind, to his employees. Today he was ready to resign as president of the Bank of Italy as the first move in a plan to permit the 2,200 employees of California's largest financial institution to take over control of the bank.

The board of directors of the institution yesterday approved the plan proposed by Mr. Giannini. As a preliminary move, Mr. Giannini is to retire from the presidency of the $300,000,000 bank and James A. Baughman, the present senior vice-president, is to succeed him as head of the organization.

The Bank of Italy is among the seven largest banking corporations in the United States. It has approximately 400,000 depositors and 88 branches throughout California. Giannini, who founded the bank 20 years ago, and who first proposed the plan of giving the bank to the employees, will continue to act as chairman of the bank's executive committee and financial committee.

The plan calls for the obtaining of a controlling block of stock by active employees, a change in the list of officers and the directorate at least every five years to allow promotion of these officers from the bank's employees and the full protection of the rights and potential earnings of the 14,000 stockholders. The bank has $17,500,000 in stock outstanding and an actual strength of $15,000,000.

DAVIS SPEAKS IN CHICAGO

Candidate Invades Foreign Quarters of City

Chicago, Oct. 17.—John W. Davis carried the Democratic presidential campaign further into Chicago today and prepared, after a series of addresses, scheduled for tonight in the Bohemian, Polish and Jewish quarters of the city, to turn south again, headed this time for East St. Louis, Ill., and Missouri.

The candidate devoted his time during most of the day to conferences at the hotel where he stopped and rested between the brief intervals allowed him by his callers for that purpose. Many of those who visited Mr. Davis said they had called for the specific purpose of congratulating him on the address last night in which he restated his attitude on the Ku Klux Klan.

SOUTH DAKOTA IS OBJECTIVE OF LAFOLLETTE

Senator Leaves for Sioux Falls After Speaking in Minneapolis

STATEMENT OF SON

LaFollette Special, en route to Sioux Falls, Minn., Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—South Dakota was the next objective of Senator Robert M. LaFollette as he continued active campaigning today in the Northwest. The independent presidential candidate planned to follow up with an address at Sioux Falls the attack he made on President Coolidge last night to a Minneapolis audience.

Robert M. LaFollette Jr., who accompanied his father, issued the statement today as the candidate's train traveled toward Sioux Falls.

"My attention has just been called to a statement at Buffalo and Wyoming by Tom O'Connor, chairman of the shipping board, in which he challenged anyone in absolute authority in the progressive campaign to deny that large amounts of money have been sent through Mexico from Russia to help the LaFollette-Whelan ticket."

"In the vocabulary of the progressives 'absolute authority' means the people. But so far as campaign contributions or source of party funds are concerned I have absolute no knowledge and I emphatically do so," O'Connor's statement. I denounce as a willful and malicious campaign lie."

I am telegraphing Frank P. Walsh at Chicago, requesting that he subpoena O'Connor before the Borah committee and put him under oath and require him to testify on two points: first, as to his alleged evidence of campaign contributions to the LaFollette-Whelan campaign from Russia or from any other foreign source directly or indirectly; secondly, as to O'Connor's payment of railroad fares, taxi cabs, hotel bills and entertainment of the hired audience of labor leaders delivered by F. O. B. White House to listen to President Coolidge's Labor Day address. I want to know from whom he got his authority to hire the audience and pay the freight on it both ways, and where he got the money to pay the bills."

MacManus, Noted Lecturer, Will Be Here Tonight

Seamus MacManus, noted lecturer, entertainer and author of works in Ireland, will speak tonight at 8:15 p. m. at the St. Mary's Auditorium. Mr. MacManus spoke yesterday at Mandan. He has recently been lecturing before normal schools in the country.

ADJUSTABLE BAND INVENTED

Valley City, N. D., Oct. 17.—According to the Chicago Gazette, J. R. Marquise, local merchant, has applied for a patent on an adjustable neckband for shirts. ALLEGED AUTO THIEVES HELD

Barnes County Officers Get Two in So. Dak.

Valley City, N. D., Oct. 17.—Sheriff James Kelley returned to the city from Aberdeen, S. D., with two men giving their names as Martin Poland and Noble Smith, charged with stealing a Buick touring car here Sunday evening from Eric Fouke who had left his machine parked in front of the Security National bank during the hours of seven and eight o'clock.

Mr. Fouke accompanied Sheriff Kelly to the South Dakota city and the officer in company with Mr. Fouke and the two prisoners returned in the stolen car yesterday. One of the men, who had unusually small hands, slipped the cuff links off and made an unsuccessful attempt to escape. Again the Barnes county officer who has made an enviable record for capturing thieves this fall, captured his man with little trouble. They will be arraigned before Judge J. J. Moo.

Election results will be announced from the National Radio Exposition in New York, November 2 to 8.

TRIBUTE PAID AT RITES OF THEO. KOFFEL

Masonic and Odd Fellows Lodges and Friends Join in Ceremonies

BODY LIES IN STATE

Viewed by Close Friends—Impressive Ceremonies Are Conducted

Final rites in memory of Theodore Koffel, prominent for many years in legal, political and fraternal circles in the state, was paid today in private services conducted for the family and in public services conducted at the Masonic Temple this afternoon.

First tribute was paid at the private service, held in the Perry chapel at 10:30 o'clock this morning, with Rev. I. G. Monson of the Trinity Lutheran church officiating. Present at the services was the mother of the late Mr. Koffel who, though 90 years of age, came from her home in Montevideo, Minnesota, to be present for the rites. Remarks especially directed to her were given in Norwegian by Rev. Monson, who reminded her of the many things she had done for her son, and told her that the faith she had reared him in he had confessed. Words of comfort were addressed to sorrowing relatives.

Formal ritualistic ceremonies were held at the Masonic Temple this afternoon. The Masonic Bodies and the Odd Fellows lodge, both of which Mr. Koffel was a prominent member, cooperated in the arrangement of the ceremonies. The body was removed from the Perry parlors to the Masonic temple at noon today, with Knights Templar in full uniform furnishing the guard of honor. They remained as a guard while many friends passed by as the body lay in state in the lodge room of the Temple for two hours.

Formal services were opened with a prayer, after which B. F. Flannagan, chaplain, and Fred Roberts, taking the part of Noble Grand of the Odd Fellows lodge, conducted the ritualistic services of that order. Highest tribute was paid to Mr. Koffel, who was Brigadier-General in the Patriarchs Militant branch of the lodge. Members of this order, in full uniform, escorted the body to Fairview cemetery, followed by a long line of mourners. Rev. Monson again conducted services at the cemetery.

A quartet composed of Mrs. Herman Scheffer, Mrs. W. J. Targart, Henry Halverson and George Humphries sang "Rock of Ages" and "Crossing the Bar."

Officers Are Fall-Borners

Pull-burners were officers of the Patriarchs Militant, they being Col. P. E. Rognie of Esmond, colonel of the First regiment; Col. W. J. Holbrook of Rugby, colonel of the Second regiment; Lieut. Col. C. L. Harrington, chief-of-staff, Major R. E. Carlander, Assistant Adjutant-General, and Major A. Sehnawski, Assistant Inspector-General. Major Carlander was designated to represent the grand encampment by F. E. Payne, of Fargo, grand patriarch of the grand encampment of North Dakota.

The casket was banked high with beautiful floral tributes, which came not only from many friends in and outside of Bismarck, but from fraternal bodies in various parts of the state.

SALMON PLENTIFUL

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 17.—British Columbia canners will have a bumper crop of salmon this year. An Alaskan 1,250,000 catch have been packed, and a low estimate puts the aggregate returns from the canneries this year at 1,500,000 cases. Large shipments of the new pack continue to move out on every steamer for England.

OFFICERS ON LIQUOR RAID DRIVEN OFF BY IRATE FARMER AND FAMILY; THREAT TO KILL OFFICER IS MADE

A scene rivaling the stories of "re-venuers" and moonshine raids in southern hills was enacted on the North Dakota prairies in Hettinger county Monday, according to the story related by F. C. Myers, deputy state license inspector. Attorney-General's office.

Three officers intent on enforcing the prohibition law were met with the threat that they could not enter a farm house to capture liquor and hope to come out alive. The threat was backed by a revolver in the hands of a 19-year-old youth and a sharp-pointed auto, spring in the hands of an elderly lady, with her husband also making threats.

The scene occurred when Myers, Federal officer Harrison Carter and a Deputy Sheriff State went to the home of Fred Kerechman in Hettinger county and read him a search warrant. One officer found two 16-gallon kegs of moonshine in the basement of the house and then came out to report, Myers said. Immediately, he continued, a boy, about 19, brandished a revolver and Mrs. Kerechman waved the dangerous looking gun, spring, asserting the officers would be killed if they entered the house.

"We could have taken the gun but we would have had to do some shooting," Myers said. "We chose the path of discretion, went back to town, got warrants and went out the next night and served them."

Charges of assault with deadly weapons with intent to kill were drawn up, he said, and a liquor charge placed against Kerechman. Father and son were held in $7,000 bonds, he said. The woman said she was sick and they did not take her to town to face a magistrate, but will later. Kerechman, Myers said, has been arrested before on liquor law violation charges.

The officer reported two or three small children were about the house and when he asked a little girl if she went to school she replied she didn't "have time to go to school."

The officers made nine arrests in a series of liquor raids in Slope, Hettinger and Morton counties.

Baby Suffocated By Sand, Pebbles

The colony was not founded in behalf of Great Britain but of the United States through an American corporation in Nome, Mr. Stefansson said.

"This situation is up to the United States," he said.

H. H. KOHLSAAT FORMER NOTED EDITOR, DIES

Passes Away at Home of Secretary Hoover in Washington

Washington, Oct. 17.—H. H. Kohlsaet, noted former Chicago publisher and close friend of many presidents, died suddenly here today at the home of Secretary Hoover.

He had come to Washington for a visit and although he had been in poor health for some months his condition had not been considered serious. He was 71 years old.

Death resulted from a stroke of paralysis suffered by Mr. Kohlsaet at the Hoover residence on Tuesday. Mrs. Kohlsaet and their two daughters, Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago and Mrs. Roger Shepard of St. Paul, were with him at the time of his death.

For many years Kohlsaet had been on terms of intimacy with a wide circle of public men. He was consulted on public questions by McKinley, Roosevelt, Wilson and Harding and many times had been a house guest at the White House. Recently he had not taken an active part in politics but remained a friend and adviser of those of his many acquaintances in public life. He had retired from active newspaper life in 1913.

BUTLER AVERS $1,300,000 IS BEING SOUGHT

Republican National Chairman Says That $3,000,000 Is Goal in Campaign

GIVES TESTIMONY

"Lays Cards on Table" Before Investigating Committee of Senator Borah

Chicago, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The Republican national campaign organization intends, if possible, to collect an additional $1,300,000 to carry on its work between now and election day, Wm. M. Butler, chairman of the committee, testified today before the special committee investigating campaign funds. This sum would make up the $3,000,000 budget which the Republican committee decided at the outset of the campaign would be necessary for the conduct of what Butler denominated as "a vigorous campaign."

"That is a modest amount in view of the expenditures that have been made before," President Coolidge's field marshal told the committee.

Chairman Borah inquired as to the uses to which the fund had been put and Mr. Butler said it was used by the various bureaus within the organization.

"Are there any organizations which are raising money and expending it for the Republican organization except yours?" asked Senator Borah.

"None," Mr. Butler replied.

"I am aware of, except the different state organizations," Mr. Butler replied.

Caraway's Inquiry

Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, inquired about the letter of a Massachusetts manufacturer, inviting contributions to the Republican campaign in excess of the legal amount, with a promise that contributions would be "covered up."

Mr. Butler declared the Republican organization not only had nothing to do with that but disapproved of it.

"You fixed the budget at $3,000,000," said Senator Caraway, "and you called on Pennsylvania for $600,000, or one fifth of the amount. Why was that?"

Mr. Butler started to explain and Senator Caraway broke in:

"Was it because you regarded Pennsylvania as a 'fruitful field'?"

"I had hoped so," Butler replied.

Illinois quota $400,000. Illinois was put down for $400,000 of the total for a similar reason.

Senator Caraway remarked that if the Republican organization had gone on the same percentage basis through the 48 states it would have received more than a billion dollars.

"No, no," said Mr. Butler.

George Barr Baker, director of the publicity bureau of the Republican committee was called and gave details of the expenditures of $437,000 up to October 10 last by his bureau.

Question as to the cost of certain type of publicity, Baker said matrix material for a list of rural papers had cost approximately $20,000.

Asked by Senator Borah regarding the subject matter of such material Baker said the subject "usually varied with the moment."

"One release," he said, was "denouncing" LaFollette.

"How much did that cost you?" demanded Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota.

The witness said he did not know the cost of any one piece of material. Baker said he had purchased no newspaper space for his matrix matter.

"How many papers were supplied with grand editorials?" asked Sen. Caraway.

"I think we have a list of some 6,000 publications," was the answer.

After the examination of Baker had been concluded Chairman Borah announced the adjournment of the committee subject to call. The investigators had expected to hear today Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, who is to present Senator LaFollette's charges of an effort by Republicans to raise "a slush fund" in doubtful states but they were advised that Mr. Walsh could not reach Chicago before tonight and possibly not before tomorrow.

STATE'S MILL FAILS TO WIN IN NEW MARTS

Unable to Break in Successfully in Out-of-State Market After 2 Years

MEETING COMPETITION

Mill's Loss Now Shown To Be $635,000 in Report of Auditor

North Dakota's state-owned, state-operated flour mill at Grand Forks, after almost two years of operation, has not been able to break into markets outside the state of North Dakota with sufficient force to put the mill on its feet financially, it is shown in the report of O. B. Lund, accountant for the state board of auditors, in a report submitted to the board, as required by law, on the mill's operation from January 1 to 30, 1924. The total loss shown by the auditor is $635,157.51, which corresponds closely to the loss shown in a report of the board of managers as of the same date, made public.

The significant feature as seen in the latest accountant's report on the mill, as seen in some quarters, is the inability of the mill to win its way against competition of privately-owned mills in other states. Apparently, the mill has succeeded fairly well in establishing markets in North Dakota, but the difficulties outside the state more than off-set the success within the state.

Most of the big flour milling institutions of the country have grown from small beginnings, enlarging as their slowly built-up business made possible. The North Dakota state mill, a fairly large institution, however has been confronted with the difficulty of establishing a market for a big output from the start. It had been started in the past by those connected with the state mill that the only hope for success was in a large output, because of the investment involved.

Heroic measures have been used by the mill management in seeking to establish out-of-state markets, it is indicated. The sales reports show flour sold in many states in the union and in foreign countries. The output is so large that markets must be found outside the state. In apparently seeking to break into out-of-state markets, the mill management has priced its flour, said to be of high quality, low enough to meet all competition, but has not won its way to a point where it can raise its prices to yield a profit.

Accountant Lund, in his report, points out that flour is sold outside the state at lower prices than within the state, it is understood, being considered a necessity in establishing markets. Several comparisons are given by the accountant. He shows that on June 24 the mill sold flour in Fargo, North Dakota, for $8.10 a barrel while on June 10 it sold flour in Fort Dodge, Iowa, at $7.00 a barrel. On June 27 it sold flour in Bismarck at $8.04 a barrel and on June 16 it sold flour in Waterloo, Iowa, at $7.25 per barrel. Other comparisons show a lower price obtained for flour outside of North Dakota than in North Dakota. Accountant Lund questions the price, saying: "In going over the sale price of mill products, it is found that they are sold at a lower price outside of the state than in North Dakota. This is a trade custom but it might be questioned why North Dakota people are not permitted to purchase their flour from their mill as cheap as people in other states."

The accountant's report also shows heavy operations on the part of the mill in an endeavor to produce enough flour to reduce its overhead expenses to a point where it will show a profit. The mill has failed to do this, however, the loss from January 1, 1924 to June 30, 1924, being shown as $126,779.01 in operating expense, with a total loss for the six months period, including depreciation and interest, of $309,158.91.

Divides Operations

For convenient comparison Mr. Lund divided the operations and costs for the three audit periods. During the period October 23, 1923, the beginning of operations, to July 31, 1923, the mill had an operating loss of 48 cents a barrel. From August 1, to Dec. 31, 1923, an operating profit of 10.12 cents per barrel, while the period covered by the present report—Jan. 1, 1924 to June 30, 1924—shows an operating loss of 29.61 cents per barrel. The total loss, adding interest, etc., for the respective periods is shown: 86.7 cents per barrel, 20.3 cents per barrel and 72.4 cents per barrel, or an average loss of 54.6 cents per barrel since the operation of the mill.

The establishment of the full loss of $635,157.51, is to some extent, arbitrary, the accountant setting up amounts for depreciation, reserve for bad debts, etc. One accountant, who has seen the Lund report, holds that the depreciation charges are too low. The depreciation charged on mill machinery is at the rate of 5 percent a year, power house machinery 4 percent a year, while it is asserted by another accountant that on the basis of a 10 hour a day operation the machinery should be depreciated 6 percent.

It is pointed out that each time a bank closes, the deposits become a liability of the Depositors Guaranty Fund Commission, and since that commission has not, and will not for years, have sufficient funds to pay all depositors, the reopening of one of these closed banks increases the dividend it is possible to pay to the depositors of banks that cannot be reopened.

The Depositors Guaranty Fund Commission and State Banking Department, with faith in the future of the state and acting under the bank administration act of July 1, 1923, endeavored to keep many banks open and to reopen many closed banks. Thirty-one of the closed banks in the state, having deposits totalling $4,228,104.84 have reopened for office. Several more banks are scheduled to reopen within the next month, so that it is expected that within a short time banks having total deposits of over $5,000,000 will have reopened. With the liability of the Guaranty Fund Commission to depositors of closed banks reduced this much, it will be able to pay larger dividends as assessments on open banks are received.

The bank administration act of July 1, 1923, made it possible for the Commission to use some of its funds in an effort to keep banks open or to reopen banks. The commission, according to C. B. McMillan, a member, felt that under the law it could not use all of the funds. But it applied enough, in his opinion, to make possible the reopening of many banks and the keeping open of many. While virtually all of the Depositors Guaranty Fund money so invested was amply secured and is being returned, the depositors of closed banks would have gained if the commission had lost hundreds of thousands of dollars, it is pointed out. They gain through the reduction of the liability to depositors and advancing the time of payment to them.

FIRPO-FULTON GO PLANNED

New York, Oct. 17.—Although watching the outcome of legal proceedings in which Luis Firpo is involved, Tex Rickard is going ahead with plans for a match at Madison Square Garden in November between Firpo and Fred Fulton, the Minneapolis plasterer. The promoter is desirous of staging the contest on Nov. 14 or 28.

Another South American heavyweight, Quintin Romero of Chile, probably will appear on the same card with Jim Maloney of Boston, an opponent in the semi-windup.

BIG POTATOES EXHIBITED

Bismarck is in the land of the "big baked potato."

W. N. Griffin displayed at The Tribune two potatoes, which are samples of his garden crop. One of them weighed 30 ounces and the other 25 ounces. He got 13 big ones in one hill.

Mr. Griffin said he had 25 bushels, without a blemish on any one of them. He did not water his garden and ploughed it but once.

PLANS MADE TO TURN BANK TO ITS EMPLOYEES

Bank of Italy, Largest in California, To Be Given Over Under Plan

San Francisco, Calif., Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Twenty years ago A. F. Giannini, commission merchant, gave his business, then one of the largest of its kind, to his employees. Today he was ready to resign as president of the Bank of Italy as the first move in a plan to permit the 2200 employees of California's largest financial institution to take over control of the bank.

The board of directors of the institution yesterday approved the plan proposed by Mr. Giannini.

As a preliminary move, Mr. Giannini is to retire from the presidency of the $350,000,000 bank and James A. Baiozalupi, the present senior vice-president, is to succeed him as head of the organization.

The Bank of Italy is among the seven largest banking corporations in the United States. It has approximately 600,000 depositors and 86 branches throughout California. Giannini, who founded the bank 20 years ago, and who first proposed the plan of giving the bank to the employees, will continue to act as chairman of the bank's executive committee and financial committee.

The plan calls for the obtaining of a controlling block of stock by active employees, a change in the list of officers and the directorate at least every five years to allow promotion of these officers from the bank's employees and the full protection of the rights and potential earnings of the 14,000 stockholders. The bank has $17,500,000 in stock outstanding and an actual strength of $15,000,000.

DAVIS SPEAKS IN CHICAGO

Candidate Invades Foreign Quarters of City

Chicago, Oct. 17.—John W. Davis carried the Democratic presidential campaign further into Chicago today and prepared after a series of addresses, scheduled for tonight, in the Bohemian, Polish and Jewish quarters of the city, to turn south again, headed this time for East St. Louis, Ill. and Missouri.

The candidate devoted his time during most of the day to conferences at the hotel where he stopped and resting before the brief interval allowed him by his callers for that purpose. Many of those who visited Mr. Davis said they had called for the specific purpose of congratulating him on the address last night in which he restated his attitude on the Ku Klux Klan.

SOUTH DAKOTA IS OBJECTIVE OF LAFOLLETTE

Senator Leaves for Sioux Falls After Speaking in Minneapolis

STATEMENT OF SON

LaFollette Special, en route to Sioux Falls, Minn., Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—South Dakota was the next objective of Senator Robert M. LaFollette as he continued active campaigning today in the Northwest. The independent presidential candidate planned to follow up with an address at Sioux Falls the attack he made on President Coolidge last night to a Minneapolis audience.

Robert M. LaFollette Jr., who is accompanying his father, issued this statement today as the candidate's train traveled toward Sioux Falls:

"My attention has been called to a statement at Buffalo on Wednesday by Tom O'Connor, chairman of the shipping board, in which he challenged anyone in absolute authority in the progressive campaign to deny that large amounts of money have been sent through Mexico from Russia to help the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket."

"In the vocabulary of the progressives 'absolute authority' means the people. But so far as campaign contributions or source of party funds are concerned I have absolutely no knowledge and emphatically deny O'Connor's statement. I denounce it as a willful and malicious campaign lie. Frank P. Walsh at Chicago, requesting that he subpoena O'Connor before the Borah committee and put him under oath and require him to testify on two points: first, as to his alleged evidence of campaign contributions to the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign from Russia or from any other foreign source, directly or indirectly; secondly, as to O'Connor's payment of railroad fares, taxi expenses, hotel bills and entertainment every five years to allow promotion of these officers from the bank's employees and the full protection of the rights and potential earnings of the 14,000 stockholders. The bank has $17,500,000 in stock outstanding and an actual strength of $15,000,000."

OFFICERS ON LIQUOR RAID DRIVEN OFF BY IRATE FARMER AND FAMILY; THREAT TO KILL OFFICER IS MADE

A scene rivaling the stories of "revenuers" and moonshine raids in southern hills was enacted on the North Dakota prairies in Hettinger county Monday, according to the story related by F. C. Myers, deputy state license inspector, Attorney-General's office.

Three officers intent on enforcing the prohibition law were met with the threat that they could not enter a farm house to capture liquor and hope to come out alive. The threat was backed by a revolver in the hands of a 19-year-old youth and a sharp-pointed auto spring in the hands of an elderly lady, with her husband also making threats.

The scene occurred when Myers, Federal officer Harrison Carter and a Deputy Sheriff State went to the home of Fred Kershman in Hettinger county and read him a search warrant. One officer found two 16-gallon kegs of moonshine in the basement of the house and then came out to report, Myers said. Immediately, he continued, a boy, about 19, brand-

TRIBUTE PAID AT RITES OF THEO. KOFFEL

Masonic and Odd Fellows Lodges and Friends Join in Ceremonies

BODY LIES IN STATE

Viewed by Close Friends—Impressive Ceremonies Are Conducted

Final rites in memory of Theodore Koffel, prominent for many years in legal, political and fraternal circles in the state, was paid today in private services conducted for the family and in public services conducted at the Masonic Temple this afternoon.

First tribute was paid at the private services held in the Perry chapel at 10:30 o'clock this morning, with Rev. I. G. Monson of the Trinity Lutheran church officiating. Present at the services was the mother of the late Mr. Koffel who, though 90 years of age, came from her home in Montevideo, Minnesota, to be present for the rites. Remarks especially directed to her were given in Norwegian by Rev. Monson, who reminded her of many things she had done for her son, and told her that the faith she had reared him in he had confessed. Words of comfort were addressed to sorrowing relatives.

Formal ritualistic ceremonies were held at the Masonic Temple this afternoon. The Masonic Bodies and the Odd Fellows lodge, both of which Mr. Koffel was a prominent member, cooperated in the arrangement of the ceremonies. The body was removed from the Perry parlors to the Masonic temple at noon today, with Knights Templar in full uniform furnishing the guard of honor. The body remained as a guard while many friends passed by as the body lay in state in the lodge room of the temple for two hours.

Formal services were opened with a prayer, after which B. F. Flanagan, chaplain, and Fred Roberts, taking the part of Noble Grand of said Odd Fellows lodge, conducted the ritualistic services of that order. Highest tribute was paid to Mr. Koffel, who was Brigadier-General in the Patriarchs Militant branch of the lodge. Members of this order, in full uniform, escorted the body to Fairview cemetery, followed by a long line of mourners. Rev. Monson again conducted services at the cemetery.

A quartet composed of Mrs. Herman Scheffer, Mrs. W. J. Targart, Henry Halverson and George Humphries sang "Rock of Ages" and "Crossing the Bar."

H. H. KOHLSAAT FORMER NOTED EDITOR, DIES

Washington, Oct. 17.—H. H. Kohlsaatt, noted former Chicago publisher and close friend of many presidents, died suddenly here today at the home of Secretary Hoover.

He had come to Washington for a visit and although he had been in poor health for some months his condition had not been considered serious. He was 71 years old.

Death resulted from a stroke of paralysis suffered by Mr. Kohlsaatt at the Hoover residence on Tuesday.

Mrs. Kohlsaatt and their two daughters, Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago and Mrs. Roger Shepard of St. Paul, were with him at the time of his death.

For many years Kohlsaatt had been on terms of intimacy with a wide circle of public men. He was consulted on public questions by McKinley, Roosevelt, Wilson and Harding and many times had been a house guest at the White House. Recently he had not taken an active part in politics but remained a friend and adviser of those of his many acquaintances in public life. He had retired from active newspaper life in 1913.

BUTLER AVERS $1,300,000 IS BEING SOUGHT

Republican National Chairman Says That $3,000,000 Is Goal in Campaign

GIVES TESTIMONY

"Lays Cards on Table" Before Investigating Committee of Senator Borah

Chicago, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The Republican national campaign organization intends, if possible, to collect an additional $1,300,000 to carry on its work between now and election day, Wm. M. Butler, chairman of the committee, testified today before the special committee investigating campaign funds. This sum would make up the $3,000,000 budget which the Republican committee decided at the outset of the campaign would be necessary for the conduct of what Butler denominated as "a vigorous campaign."

"That is a modest amount in view of the expenditures that have been made before," President Coolidge's field marshal told the committee.

Chairman Borah inquired as to the uses to which the fund had been put and Mr. Butler said it was used by the various bureaus within the organization.

"Are there any organizations which are raising money and expending it for the Republican organization except yours?" asked Senator Borah.

"None that I am aware of, except the different state organizations," Mr. Butler replied.

Caraway's Inquiry

Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, inquired about the letter of a Massachusetts manufacturer, inviting contributions to the Republican campaign in excess of the legal amount, with a promise that contributions would be "covered up."

Mr. Butler declared the Republican organization not only had nothing to do with that but disapproved of it.

"You fixed the budget at $3,000,000," said Senator Caraway, "and you called on Pennsylvania for $600,000, or one fifth of the amount. Why was that?"

Mr. Butler started to explain and Senator Caraway broke in:

"Was it because you regarded Pennsylvania as a fruitful field?"

"I had hoped so," Butler replied.

Illinois quota $400,000

Illinois was put down for $400,000 of the total for a similar reason.

Senator Caraway remarked that if the Republican organization had gone on the same percentage basis through the 48 states it would have received more than a billion dollars.

No, no," said Mr. Butler.

George Barr Baker, director of the publicity bureau of the Republican committee was called and gave details of the expenditures of $437,000 up to October 10 last by his bureau.

Question as to the cost of certain types of publicity, Baker said matrix material for a list of rural papers had cost approximately $20,000.

Asked by Senator Borah regarding the subject matter of such material Baker said the subject "usually varied with the moment."

"One release," he said, was "de-bunking" LaFollette.

"How much did that cost you?" demanded Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota.

The answer was that he did not know the cost of any one piece of material. Baker said he had purchased no newspaper space for his matrix material.

"How many papers were supplied with 'gandd' editorials?" asked Sen. Caraway.

"I think we have a list of some 6,000 publications," was the answer.

PRESIDENTIAL POLLS

Nearly 2,000,000 Ballots Are Recorded and Analyzed in This Week's Issue

With the tabulations in this week's "Digest" of nearly two million votes, representing all the forty-eight States of the Union, the returns in this greatest of all unofficial polls may, for the first time, be considered fairly representative of the nation.

It is noteworthy that the Democratic percentage has risen slightly with a corresponding fall in the Republican percentage. This percentage may be expected to rise still further with the succeeding returns since the States in which Democratic strength is confessedly strongest are among the last ones to report. "The Digest," in an analysis of the ballots so far cast, points out the source of LaFollette's strength.

This poll is probably the outstanding news - feature in the press today and is being anxiously studied by voters of all political persuasions, wherever located, as it would seem that in the final analysis, it will give a trustworthy indication as to who will win the Presidency.

There are several other important articles in this week's issue of the "Digest" that will be read with interest by the American public. Among them are:

"The Digest's" Greatest of All

PRESIDENTIAL POLLS

Nearly 2,000,000 Ballots Are Recorded and Analyzed in This Week's Issue

With the tabulations in this week's "Digest" of nearly two million votes, representing all the forty-eight States of the Union, the returns in this greatest of all unofficial polls may, for the first time, be considered fairly representative of the nation.

It is noteworthy that the Democratic percentage has risen slightly with a corresponding fall in the Republican percentage. This percentage may be expected to rise still further with the succeeding returns since the States in which Democratic strength is confessedly strongest are among the last ones to report. "The Digest," in an analysis of the ballots so far cast, points out the source of LaFollette's strength.

This poll is probably the outstanding news - feature in the press today and is being anxiously studied by voters of all political persuasions, wherever located, as it would seem that in the final analysis, it will give a trustworthy indication as to who will win the Presidency.

There are several other important articles in this week's issue of the "Digest" that will be read with interest by the American public. Among them are:

The Political Explosion in Iowa
Mr. Mellon and the "Aluminum Trust"
The League of Nations Acquires Teeth
To Halt the Smuggling of Aliens
The Rum Problem in the Philippines
"Marching Through Georgia" in the Caucasus

MOTOR NEEDS FUEL

About this time of year there usually appear a number "don'ts" advising us how to regulate our personal habits so that we may survive the summer. Good advice, too, they usually are and we never heard of any person being harmed through complying with them. But there usually is among them one that we never know just how to take. "Don't overeat," it advises us and we feel certain that we have never done so. Usually we confine our hot weather meals to mere snacks like ham and cabbage with a couple of potatoes, side dish of some vegetable like peas, several ounces of bread and butter, a salad, pie and cheese and ice cream and a beaker or so of milk. We eat comfortably, perhaps, but as for over-eating, we have no desire in that direction. We believe in moderation.

Seriously, that is about the way the average person dines. He will have about that amount of food at the evening meal at home. He will say he likes to have one full meal a day and that he can get along nicely on that but he forgets all about the fact that he probably has eaten a quantity of food almost as large, if not equally so, at midday. The puzzling part of it is that the hearty eaters usually are the healthiest.

The answer is that good food is the best medicine and that the right kind in proper quantities is just as essential in the summer time or the intermediate season to keep the human engine in operation as it is in the winter. Immoderate eating often makes people ill and we also know that every person cannot eat everything. The only question is what does "don't overeat" mean? Probably different things to different individuals but, never, we are sure from observation, does it mean that a healthy man or woman should starve in order to avoid danger of being overcome by the heat.

BUYING CLOTHES

A man selects a blue necktie for the same reason that he orders a chocolate soda. It is the first thing that comes into his mind. He usually walks away with the second hat the salesman shows him, and he can easily be argued into a pair of shoes that don't fit, and that he doesn't really want.

But does a woman ever act like that? Well, just ask the girl at the soda fountain or the young man in the gent's furnishing store about their women customers.

Women pick out things for their men folk with taste and discrimination; that is, everything except cigars. No woman has any license to buy cigars for any man, unless he has hitherto specified the brand. But in the clothing line they know what they are doing.

It would surprise you to know how many women in this town make the purchases for their husbands and grown sons. It bespeaks a pride that all concerned justly may be thankful for, and there is nothing in it to make the man ashamed. He will be better dressed for it.

True, once in a while one meets some old crocodile who has always been slouchy, and when he first appears in a neat and natty outfit that his wife picked out we are surprised, and we laugh. But would his own selection have been better? Remember the derby hat! What an outrage upon intelligence it was. Now, they say, derbies are returning to fashion. Women have more sense than men. They won't allow a general return of the iron hat, we are sure.

INVITATIONS TO RIDE

No one drives an auto long on the public roads before becoming familiar with the wayside traveler who asks for a ride. Sometimes in the evening such pedestrians will disconcert one on lonely roads by making an arresting gesture. Begging a ride is becoming quite common. Very often the driver cannot check his speed until it is too late to answer the pedestrian's appeal. Men with good intentions are often in doubt as to whether they should accept these passengers, and there are several reasons why it pays to be careful.

The driver of an auto has a right to be suspicious of men who spring from the dark into the glare of the headlights and motion for a ride. Often the action closely resembles a hold up and such men should receive no consideration. The night is no time to make such requests.

It should be remembered that taking passengers is a risky business. If the guest is injured he may sue the owner of the car for damages. Then again there are thugs roaming the highways who from the comfortable back seat find it easy to hold up a driver. The accommodating autoist may feel cold steel under his ear while his hand is on the wheel. Granting free rides to unknown wayfarers should be confined to broad daylight and well traveled roads.

NOT SO WILD!

Jules Verne, if alive, could write a fascinating and not improbable book about future men shipping freight and express by radio—some process of disintegrating matter and reassembling it in its original form at the far-off receiving station.

That sound wild? Not any more so than radio music, radio speeches, radio movies and radio vision would have seemed when Grover Cleveland was in the White House.

WASTERS

Paris newspapers are campaigning because in France the dogs eat a ninth as much bread as the people. Shrewd editors over there believe it is ridiculous for a war-impooverished country not to kill off its dogs. To an economist, this is sound logic. A dog lover, however, would claim that a food shortage is worthwhile in exchange for canine affection. Dogs, like all pets are tolerated mainly because they gratify human vanity. All of us hanker to have a slave, an animal being second-best bet.

The furnace stepped right into scrimmage this season, without a preliminary training season.

MINISTERS AND MONEY

(Ann Arbor Times News.)
Rev. M. S. Rice of the Detroit Metropolitan Methodist church advises ministers at the state conference of his denomination to "be broke" if they wish to succeed in theology.
"There is no financial reward in the ministry," says Mr. Rice. "It's a costly thing we're in." He adds, "I believe I could get rich in business. I know a lot of fools in my town who are millionaires. The only real qualification I have for the ministry is that I am busted." There is no doubting the logic of his theory. A minister is a philosopher, and a man without worldly goods is better qualified than one who is burdened with them to judge the world and to counsel and console its inhabitants. However, a little money now and then is relished by the best of men, and we have an idea that our theologians would not lose their immortal souls if they came into personal contact with some ready cash.
Mr. Rice is, beyond a doubt, a philosopher, because he takes his "bustedness" philosophically, makes the best of it. But it's a queer world that pays ball players attractive sums to furnish amusement and ministers a bare living wage for religion.

THE PRINCE'S VISIT

(The Independent)
The prince of Wales has come and gone, leaving a wilderness of gray fedoras in his wake and almost as many gray hairs among the socially aspirant who entertained or sought to entertain, his royal highness. Thrilled as the sovereign people of these states were to have by occasional glimpses of the prince, and cheered as it may have been by retrograde impressions of royalty attacking his morning eggs, let it not forget that closer contacts were not without their complications to plutocrats not inclined to boarding princes. Yet the Long Island set lived up to its responsibilities nobly and perhaps even enjoyed them.
What Magnus Johnson's constituents have for that matter, any bloc of non-utopian Americans—think of Long Island's social frenzy over this unofficial visit of royalty may perhaps be better imagined than written. We are a hospitable people, a sensation-seeking people, and rather fond of titles as long as they mean nothing in particular. But, in spite of all these predilections toward prince-praising, the prince's visit worried many of us toward the end and has fortified our belief that monarchy, while an interesting survival, offers nothing to the future of troubled man.

When the sword-fish poked his sharp nose into the bag of sleepy sand and spilled it all over the beach, Tweekanose laughed and laughed.
"Ha, ha, ha! Ho, ho, ho!" he chuckled. "You've caught me but it won't do you any good. The sleepy sand is gone."
"Oh, goodness! That doesn't matter," exclaimed Nancy. "We know a charm."
"Yes, I know," said Tweekanose, "but your old charm won't do you any good, either. Suppose you do gather up the magic sand. You haven't a thing to put it into. The bag is all torn. There's a great big hole in it."
"That's easy to fix," said Nancy. "We know another charm."
"Say what are you talking about?" whispered the Sand Man uneasily. "We don't know any charm that will mend holes."
"Of course we do," said Nancy. "The one Davy Jones taught us. Don't you remember?"
She picked up the torn bag and gathered the edges of the hole together and said:
"Ink, wink,
Hole, ponder and think!
Down under the water,
It's right you should shrink."
And instantly the hole shrank and shrank until there wasn't any hole left at all and the bag was as good as new.
Even Tweekanose was so astonished that he had to say, "Well, the very idea!"
Suddenly the Sand Man said, "Im- my Jiminy!"
That was the other charm that the Green Wizard had taught them.
Instantly all the magic sand separated itself from the rest of the sand on the bottom of the ocean and jumped into the bag and then the bag flew to the Sand Man's shoulder.

to her feet and gently said "Come."

Then, Ruth, the floodgates broke. My mother, who had been so calm, became a woman imbued with marvelous will, railing at fate.
Leslie, Leslie, there is my whole thought," she said turning to the still form of my father. "There is my whole life. I cannot bear it!"
I watched her fall into a troubled sleep, after I had given her a quieting potion.

When John came up he found me in a paroxysm of tears. It was only then I realized my own great loss.
John came to me and took me in his arms and comforted me. Just the feel of his arms about me, Ruth, did give me comfort. I knew that all that which had gone before was nothing, and there was only between us our great love. I understand what you meant when you wrote me not to separate from my husband and face the loneliness of life without him, unless all love had fled.

"Oh, John," I said, "will this ever come to me? Can't you see mother and me starting out as you and I are starting out? Can't you imagine all the great experiences they have passed through? Can you realize how the mad, glad passion of youth at last calmed down into a beautiful companionship that made them seem one indeed?"
"Now that they had grown alike in thought, speech, and views, and just as they had now become one, a part of this blessed whole is left here, forsaken and alone, in a desolate, aching void, while the other, with valiant, has gone into the Great Beyond—into that mysterious eternal finality which takes toll of us all, one by one."

SITTING ON A SAFETY VALVE

By Albert Apple

It is far better for a Red to speak from a soapbox on the street corner than to denounce the government secretly in some cellar where he does not have the safety valve of the open air and evolves destructive schemes.
This is the belief of Dr. J. J. McConnell, Methodist bishop of Pittsburgh.

When Tom Johnson, of far and sane vision, was mayor of Cleveland, he had the same idea. In his local public square he erected a large "free speech" stone from which anybody at any hour could rise and say anything he wanted to, within bounds of decency, without interference from police.

Tom considered that stone a safety valve. It worked to perfection. Came the war. Police dragged down a speaker agitating against the draft. This shut off the safety valve. A riot followed.

The quickest way for entrenched power and special privilege to breed its own destruction is to tie down the safety valve—attempt to strangle free speech.

Oratory is the natural outlet or safety valve of the average so-called "agitator." Confine that energy, without its natural outlet, and there's danger of an explosion.

No democratic country can have revolution as long as free speech and free press are not interfered with. Change may come, but peacefully.

The channels of discontent must be kept open, urges Bishop McConnell. It may startle the conservative and rich, but super-Reds are theoretically against free speech. In this sense:

Cunning revolutionists know that free speech is a safety valve. They know that discontent becomes explosive when deprived of expression.

They further know, all that the average "radical" wants to do is talk. Sometimes this desire to assault oratorically is a mania.

They have their say . . . talk themselves hoarse. Then, exhausted or at least with the bulk of their agitating resistance vented, they go quietly home to rest up for another spouting.

Let the boys talk and they won't start fires. Meantime, sane orators, and sane newspapers—impartial, far-seeing—will gradually bring any needed changes peacefully.

Free speech and free press are the safety valves of democracy.

New York, Oct. 17.—Just about the most sophisticated town in this sophisticated town is a black cat. It sleeps on the sidewalk on Forty-second street, 100 feet from Times Square.

Thousands throng by on their way to the theatre. Rags and satins. The beautiful and damned and the ugly and blessed. Rich man and poor man.

Many stop to stroke the cat's head. It pays no attention. It is neither resentful nor responsive. It is a picture of complete indifference to the milling multitude that reflects all the drama of humanity.

What does such a cat think about? Runtown characters with rundown heels?

Ten-cent shines on $4 shoes? Fourteen-dollar shoes on, worthless bodies?

Unshapely ankles flashily displayed? Neat ankles almost hidden?

Ugliest women with most conspicuous clothes? Most accomplished men with unpressed trousers?

Eagerness, freedom, love of life in one step? Dejection, hopelessness in another?

You wouldn't have to look any higher than this dozing cat looks to thrill to the comedy and the tragedy that goes tramping, swirling by the craziest, busiest, brightest corner in this country.

Yes, and many men crowd this corner to look no higher than the cat looks. But most of them miss the drama.

His clothes are dirty. His hands are dirty. His work is dirty. He lived down in Cherry street, where there is much dirt and darkness, and rents are cheap. There he could afford to have an "apartment" of two rooms—with running water in the hallway.

He owned a second-hand phonograph and a second hand violin and second-hand furniture.

When he returned from work the other day his apartment was empty. Somebody had stolen all of his second-hand belongings.

"Well, I'm glad I didn't buy that second-hand piano the other day," he said when he saw his empty rooms.

P. S.—He has rented a furnished room farther uptown. He bought a new, cheap violin. He carries it to work with him every morning.

FABLES ON HEALTH

DESTROY FEAR

"Don't do this and don't do that," were admonitions of the mothers of Anytown, as well as of any other part of the world.

It is quite natural that a mother should warn a child against various dangers, but to put definite fear into the heart of the child is something quite different.

The proper procedure is to explain carefully the conditions of a thing which a child needs to fear—whether it be automobiles or disease. And it should be a sense of caution rather than of fear that is implanted.

The offices of nerve specialists are crowded with cases of "fear neurosis." These are people with nameless fears and when their minds are trailed back to childhood it is frequently found that nameless fears were implanted in them for years.

Teaching of caution is instinctive. It is to be found in the lower animals, but the parent should be most careful not to confuse it with fear. For fears are terrible things and lead to depression and general unfitness for enjoyment.

Don't frighten the children with threats of the bogey-man.
Don't frighten them with fears and threats.
Instruct them, and there will be no need for threats and fears.

A Thought

If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable.—1 Cor. 15:19.

Happy are we if on the body of the resurrection we can bear the face with which victorious Christians leave the earth.—Samuel Burfield.

Many Changes In Social Standings

London, Oct. 17.—Two "personals" appearing in the London Times tell their own story. The first, which reflects the social and economic changes wrought by the war, follows:

"Peer wants work; under 40; energetic, resourceful; horses, motors, literature; served in Royal Air Force."

The other shows the die hard spirit, the spirit that's out to maintain the old social standards at all hazards. Here it is:

"There is now a vacancy (first class) for Lady Inebriate in Home at —. Apply etc."

The plain inference of this laconic message is that at this particular home there is no welcome for a female inebriate who is not a lady.

WE ASK MEN

TO PROTECT THEIR HAIR

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I speak for all women when I say that we want men to keep their looks. And above all, their hair.

The women do that. You would never forgive us if we did not. We beg you to follow our example.

My whole career on the stage has depended largely on my hair. So many years ago I went to France and secured the best hair helps she knew. And I have kept up with every new discovery.

The result is my hair as you see it. It is thick and lustrous, finer than 40 years ago. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, and never a touch of gray. Now countless women who use what I use are attaining like results.

I am offering to women the best I have found, and men are also welcome. My Hair Youth combines the utmost that modern science knows. I am sure that no one knows anything for the hair which does what this combination does.

I apply it with an eye-dropper directly to the scalp. Applying tonics to the hair is ridiculous. The whole thing lies in the scalp, in the roots, and there my Hair Youth goes.

It combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It tones and stimulates the scalp. Hair thrives on such a soil as flowers thrive by like methods.

I believe that my Hair Youth now combines the greatest hair helps in existence. I have never seen anything else which brought comparable results.

Now I have placed it in every drug store, on every toilet counter. All who desire may obtain it. The name is Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair Youth. It will amaze and delight you. I authorize every dealer to return the price to anyone who claims the slightest disappointment.

I write me for my Beauty Book and I'll send you it something else to please you. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

Do You Tire Easily?

Tired feet are perhaps the warning that your present footwear has unnatural lines or is too stiff-arched to permit the necessary freedom of the foot muscles. If you ignore this timely warning, serious foot troubles may follow.

The foot arch is a flexible structure of twenty-six small bones, surrounded by twenty elastic muscles, all eager for freedom and action. If the movement of these muscles is restricted by a stiff-arched shoe, the muscles grow weak from lack of use and the feet tire easily. That is why the has a flexible arch that conforms to the natural movements of the foot. Instead of binding the foot muscles and opposing their free play, the Cantilever Shoe harmonizes with the action of the muscles, encourages them to exercise and grow strong. Change to Cantilever Shoes; they will correct your foot troubles and strengthen your arches and foot muscles so that you can walk or stand for long hours with little or no fatigue.

Cantilevers are patterned from the natural lines of the foot. Moderate, well-set heels and trimly rounded toes help keep your feet normal and comfortable. Good looking lasts—oxfords, strap pumps and boots—in fashionable colors and leathers.

MOTOR NEEDS FUEL

About this time of year there usually appear a number "don'ts" advising us how to regulate our personal habits so that we may survive the summer. Good advice, too, they usually are and we never heard of any person being harmed through complying with them. But there usually is among them one that we never know just how to take. "Don't overeat," it advises us and we feel certain that we have never done so. Usually we confine our hot weather meals to mere snacks like ham and cabbage with a couple of potatoes, side dish of some vegetable like peas, several ounces of bread and butter, a salad, pie and cheese and ice cream and a beaker or so of milk. We eat comfortably, perhaps, but as for over-eating, we have no desire in that direction. We believe in moderation.

Seriously, that is about the way the average person dines. He will have about that amount of food at the evening meal at home. He will say he likes to have one full meal a day and that he can get along nicely on that but he forgets about the fact that he probably has eaten a quantity of food almost as large, if not equally so, at midday. The puzzle part of it is that the hearty eaters usually are the healthiest.

The answer is that good food is the best medicine and that the right kind in proper quantities is just as essential in the summer time or the intermediate season to keep the human engine in operation as it is in the winter. Immoderate eating often makes people ill and we also know that every person cannot eat everything. The only question is what does "don't overeat" mean? Probably different things to different individuals but, never, we are sure from observation, does it mean that a healthy man or woman should starve in order to avoid danger of being overcome by the heat.

BUYING CLOTHES

A man selects a blue necktie for the same reason that he orders a chocolate soda. It is the first thing that comes into his mind. He usually walks away with the second hat the salesman shows him, and he can easily be argued into a pair of shoes that don't fit, and that he doesn't really want.

But does a woman ever act like that? Well, just ask the girl at the soda fountain or the young man in the gent's furnishing store about their women customers.

Women pick out things for their men folk with taste and discrimination; that is, everything except cigars. No women has any license to buy cigars for any man, unless he has hitherto specified the brand. But in the clothing line they know what they are doing.

It would surprise you to know how many women in this town make the purchases for their husbands and grown sons. It speaks a pride that all concerned justly may be thankful for, and there is nothing in it to make the man ashamed. He will be better dressed for it.

True, once in a while one meets some old crocodile who has always been slochy, and when he first appears in a neat and natty outfit that his wife picked out we are surprised, and we laugh. But would his own selection have been better? Remember the derby hat! What an outrage upon intelligence it was. Now, they say, derbies are returning to fashion. Women have more sense than men. They won't allow a general return of the iron hat, we are sure.

INVITATIONS TO RIDE

No one drives an auto long on the public roads before becoming familiar with the wayside traveler who asks for a ride. Sometimes in the evening such pedestrians will disconcert one on lonely roads by making an arresting gesture. Begging a ride is becoming quite common. Very often the driver cannot check his speed until it is too late to answer the pedestrian's appeal. Men with good intentions are often in doubt as to whether they should accept these passengers, and there are several reasons why it pays to be careful.

The driver of an auto has a right to be suspicious of men who spring from the dark into the glare of the headlights and motion for a ride. Often the action closely resembles a hold up and such men should receive no consideration. The night is no time to make such requests.

It should be remembered that taking passengers is a risky business. If the guest is injured he may sue the owner of the car for damages. Then again there are thugs roaming the highways who from the comfortable back seat find it easy to hold up a driver. The accommodating autoist may feel cold steel under his car while his hand is on the wheel. Granting free rides to unknown wayfarers should be confined to broad daylight and well traveled roads.

NOT SO WILD!

Jules Verne, if alive, could write a fascinating and not improbable book about future men shipping freight and express by radio—some process of disintegrating matter and reassembling it in its original form at the far-off receiving station.

That sound wild? Not any more so than radio music, radio speeches, radio movies and radio vision would have seemed when Grover Cleveland was in the White House.

WASTERS

Paris newspapers are campaigning because in France the dogs eat a ninth as much bread as the people. Shrewd editors over there believe it is ridiculous for a war-impooverished country not to kill off its dogs. To an economist, this is sound logic. A dog lover, however, would claim that a food shortage is worthwhile in exchange for canine affection. Dogs, like all pets are tolerated mainly because they gratify human vanity. All of us hanker to have a slave, an animal being second-best bet.

The furnace stepped right into scrimmage this season, without a preliminary training season.

MINISTERS AND MONEY

(Ann Arbor Times News.)
Rev. M. S. Rice of the Detroit Metropolitan Methodist church advises ministers at the state conference of his denomination to "be broke" if they wish to succeed in theology.

"There is no financial reward in the ministry," says Mr. Rice. "It's a costly thing we're in." He adds, "I believe I could get rich in business. I know a lot of fools in my town who are millionaires. The only real qualification I have for the ministry is that I am busted."

There is no doubting the logic of his theory. A minister is a philosopher, and a man without worldly goods is better qualified than one who is burdened with them to judge the world and to counsel and console its inhabitants. However, a little money now and then is relished by the best of men, and we have an idea that our theologians would not lose their immortal souls if they came into personal contact with some ready cash.

Mr. Rice is, beyond a doubt, a philosopher, because he takes his "bustedness" philosophically, makes the best of it. But it's a queer world that pays ball players attractive sums to furnish amusement and ministers a bare living wage for religion.

THE PRINCE'S VISIT

(The Independent)

The prince of Wales has come and gone, leaving a wilderness of army federas in his wake and almost as many gray hairs among the socially aspirant who entertained or sought to entertain, his royal highness. Thrilled as the sovereign people of these states have been by occasional visits of a prince, and cheered by the impressions of royalty attacking his morning eggs, let it not be forgotten that the contacts were not without their complications to plutocrats not inured to boarding princes. Yet the Long Island set lived up to its responsibilities nobly and perhaps even enjoyed them.

What Magnus Johnson's constituents—or, for that matter, any bloc of non-plutocratic Americans—think of Long Island's social group over the official visit of royalty may perhaps be better imagined than written. We are a hospitable people, a sensation-loving people, and rather fond of titles as long as they mean nothing in particular. But, in spite of all these predilections toward prince-praising, the prince's visit worried many of us toward the end and has fortified our belief that money, by while an interesting survival offers nothing to the future of troubled man.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

TWEEKANOSE PROMISES TO BE GOOD

When the sword-fish poked his sharp nose into the bag of sleepy sand and spilled it all over the ocean, Tweekanose laughed and laughed.

"Ha, ha, ha! Ho, ho, ho!" he chuckled. "You've caught me but it won't do you any good. The sleepy sand is gone."

"Oh, goodness! That doesn't matter," exclaimed Nancy. "We know a charm."

"Yes, I know," said Tweekanose, "but your old charm won't do you any good, either. Suppose you do gather up the magic sand. You haven't a thing to put it into. The bag is all torn. There's a great big hole in it."

"That's easy to fix," said Nancy. "We know another charm."

"Say what are you talking about?" whispered the Sand Man uneasily. "We don't know any charm that will mend holes."

"Of course we do," said Nancy. "The one Davy Jones taught us. Don't you remember?"

She picked up the torn bag and gathered the edges of the hole together and said:

"Oh, wink, wink, and think! Hold, ponder and think! Down under the water, it's right you should shrink."

And instantly the hole shrank and shrank until there wasn't any hole left at all and the bag was as good as new.

Even Tweekanose was so astonished that he had to say, "Well, the very idea."

Suddenly the Sand Man said, "Im- my Jimmy!"

That was the other charm that the Green Wizard had taught them. Instantly all the magic sand separated itself from the rest of the sand on the bottom of the ocean and jumped into the bag and then the bag flew to the Sand Man's shoulder.

"There is nothing more to be done now," said the Sand Man, "so we'll be getting along, Twins. It's long past moon-up on the earth and I'm sure all the mothers think I've gone to sleep for twenty years like Rip Van Winkle. But better late than never, say!"

"I'll be up to Tweekanose here with me," said Captain Pennywinkle. "I'm sort of a policeman anyway."

"And will you please tell all the electric-light fishes and the lobsters and the whales and the squids how very much obliged we are for trying to help us," said Nancy, who never forgot her manners.

"Deed 'n I will," nodded Captain Pennywinkle.

"Please, sir, if you'll let me go," begged Tweekanose, "I'll promise to be good. I'll never tweek another baby's nose, and I'll never try to steal the sleepy sand again, and I'll promise not to sit on the chimneys and steal the dreams the Dream Maker Man drops down."

Courage, Sailors—The Storm Will Soon Be Over

"What shall I do, Mister Sand Man?" asked Captain Pennywinkle.

"What shall he do, Twins?" asked the Sand Man.

"Let him go," said Nancy. "I know he's going to be good."

So Captain Pennywinkle let the bad little gnome go, and the last they saw of him, he was riding off on a star-fish.

"Good-bye, Cap'n," said the Sand Man.

"Good-bye!" said the Twins. And they swam up to the top of the ocean and waded out on the shore.

SITTING ON A SAFETY VALVE

By Albert Apple

It is far better for a Red to speak from a soapbox on the street corner than to denounce the government secretly in some cellar where he does not have the safety valve of the open air and evolves destructive schemes.

This is the belief of Dr. J. J. McConnell, Methodist bishop of Pittsburgh.

When Tom Johnson, of far and sane vision, was mayor of Cleveland, he had the same idea. In his local public square he erected a large "free speech" stone from which anybody at any hour could rise and say anything he wanted to, within bounds of decency, without interference from police.

Tom considered that stone a safety valve. It worked to perfection. Came the war. Police dragged down a speaker agitating against the draft. This shut off the safety valve. A riot followed.

The quickest way for entrenched power and special privilege to breed its own destruction is to tie down the safety valve—attempt to strangle free speech.

Oratory is the natural outlet or safety valve of the average so-called "agitator." Confine that energy, without its natural outlet, and there's danger of an explosion.

No democratic country can have revolution as long as free speech and free press are not interfered with. Change may come, but peaceably.

The channels of discontent must be kept open, urges Bishop McConnell. It may startle the conservative and rich, but super-Reds are theoretically against free speech. In this sense:

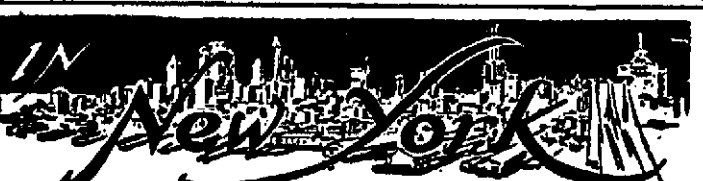

Cunning revolutionists know that free speech is a safety valve. They know that discontent becomes explosive when deprived of expression.

They further know, all that the average "radical" wants to do is talk. Sometimes this desire to assault oratorically is a mania.

They have their say . . . talk themselves hoarse. Then, exhausted or at least with the bulk of their agitating resistance vented, they go quietly home to rest up for another spouting.

Let the boys talk and they won't start fires. Meantime, sane orators, and sane newspapers—impartial, far-seeing—will gradually bring any needed changes peaceably.

Free speech and free press are the safety valves of democracy.

New York, Oct. 17.—Just about the most sophisticated thing in this sophisticated town is a black cat. It sleeps on the sidewalk on Forty-second street, 100 feet from Times Square.

Thousands throng by on their way to the theatre. Rags and satins. The beautiful and damned and the ugly and blessed. Rich man and poor man.

Many stop to stroke the cat's head. It pays no attention. It is neither resentful nor responsive. It is a picture of complete indifference to the milling multitude that reflects all the drama of humanity.

What does such a cat think about? Runday characters with runday heels?

Ten-cent shines on $4 shoes? Fourteen-dollar shoes on worthless bodies?

Unhappily ankles flashily displayed? Neat ankles almost hidden?

Ugliest women with most conspicuous clothes? Most accomplished men with unpressed trousers?

Eagerness, freedom, love of life in one step? Dejection, hopelessness in another?

You wouldn't have to look any higher than this dozing cat looks to thrill to the comedy and the tragedy that goes tramping, swirling by the craziest, busiest, brightest corner in this country.

Yes, and many men crowd this corner to look no higher than the cat looks. But most of them miss the drama.

His clothes are dirty. His hands are dirty. His work is dirty. He lived down in Cherry street, where there is much dirt and darkness, and rents are cheap. There he could afford to have an "apartment" of two rooms—with running water in the hallway.

He owned a second-hand phonograph and a second hand violin and second-hand furniture.

When he returned from work the other day his apartment was empty. Somebody had stolen all of his second-hand belongings.

"Well, I'm glad I didn't buy that second-hand piano the other day," he said when he saw his empty rooms.

P. S.—He has rented a furnished room farther uptown. He bought a new, cheap violin. He carries it to work with him every morning.

FABLES ON HEALTH DESTROY FEAR

"Don't do this and don't do that," were admonitions of the mothers of Anytown, as well as of any other part of the world.

It is quite natural that a mother should warn a child against various dangers, but to put definite fear into the heart of the child is something quite different.

The proper procedure is to explain carefully the conditions of a thing which a child needs to fear—whether it be automobiles or disease. And it should be a sense of caution rather than of fear that is implanted.

The offices of nerve specialists are crowded with cases of "fear neurosis." These are people with nameless fears and when their minds are trailed back to childhood it is frequently found that nameless fears were implanted in them for years.

Teaching in caution is instinctive. It is to be found in the lower animals, but the parent should be most careful not to confuse it with fear. For fears are terrible things and lead to depression and general unfitness for enjoyment.

Don't frighten the children with threats of the bogey-man. Don't frighten them with fears and threats. Instruct them, and there will be no need for threats and fears.

JOHN W. DAVIS VOTE RISES IN DIGEST'S POLL

Democratic Presidential Candidate Makes Sharp Gains in Week's Totals

OTHER CHANGES MADE

John W. Davis has increased his percentage of the popular end Electoral College vote in this week's returns of The Literary Digest's big Presidential poll as ballots from all of the forty-eight States have been received which, The Digest proclaims, "may, for the first time, be considered fairly representative of the nation as a whole."

As the Democratic percentage has risen slightly, the Republican ratio has correspondingly decreased. Of the total of nearly 2,000,000 votes, Coolidge has 1,066,214; Davis, 384,265; LaFollette, 432,660, which expressed in percentages show 56 per cent Republican, 20 per cent Democratic and almost 25 per cent Progressive.

LaFollette is still holding Wisconsin while Davis has increased his leadership to eleven States and President Coolidge is ahead in the other thirty-six states. LaFollette is second choice in twenty-eight states with Davis second in thirteen. In Kentucky and Oklahoma, the Democratic candidate is crowding the Republican standard-bearer closely and LaFollette has gained slightly on the President in California in the week's tabulations.

Democratic Rise
"The Democratic percentage may be expected to rise still further with succeeding returns," The Digest predicts, "since the states in which Democratic strength is confessedly strongest are among the last ones to report."

"Many Democratic spokesmen, notably Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, have explained that the Democratic campaign is slow in getting under way, by comparison with the campaigns of Mr. Coolidge and Mr. LaFollette, and therefore, it may be considered to the advantage of the Democrats that their strongholds are being heard from comparatively late in the poll."

"This fact may compensate for any advantage given the Republicans by the strong Coolidge showing in the states from which returns were first received."

"Both Democratic and Progressive publicists have argued that The Digest's polls tend to favor Republican candidates by approximately 10 per cent, and several editors produce figures from previous polls to back up their argument. This alleged percentage of error, of course, may or may not exist, but it is noteworthy that, even granting its existence, it would make a change in the political complexion of only three states."

"California would be transferred from the Coolidge to the LaFollette column, Kentucky and Oklahoma would go to the Democrats, and West Virginia, Mr. Davis' home state would show practically a tie vote between Coolidge and Davis."

Feature of Voting
"A feature of the voting in California is that, since the tabulation published a week ago, Coolidge has received 5,119 to LaFollette's 4,651, a proportion which seems to indicate a slight rise, for the week at least."

in the California popularity of the Progressive candidate.

"The question as to the source of Mr. LaFollette's strength, whether drawn more largely from the Republican or Democratic ranks, continues to stir a good many of the political prophets and dolesters."

"In consulting the table of 'How the Same Voters Voted in 1920,' some observers of the poll have called attention to the large size of the 'Did-Not-Vote' column. In this column, it must be explained, is included both those who specify that they did not vote and those who fail to mention their political allegiance in 1920."

"A more complicated tabulation kept in The Digest's polling-room shows in more detail the trend of the vote. Thus, in California, according to this tabulation, Mr. LaFollette draws his large vote chiefly from 12,862 former Democrats and 32,188 former Republicans, while 4,883 former Democrats are registered as voting for Coolidge, and 1,569 former Republicans are in the Democratic column."

"Turning to an eastern state, New York, where LaFollette has shown considerable strength, it appears that he draws 28,894 votes from former Republicans to 11,654 from former Democrats."

"In Iowa he is credited with 11,137 formerly Republican votes and 3,887 formerly Democratic. In Wisconsin, his home state, his present vote is made up of 20,306 former Republicans and 4,094 former Democrats; in Pennsylvania 12,965 former Republicans and 3,754 former Democrats."

"In this connection it must be remembered that 1920 was a strongly Republican year, so that there is small indication in these figures that the Progressive candidate's strength is being contributed exclusively by one party, as several partisans have announced."

"It is also noteworthy, in spite of Mr. LaFollette's large vote, he has so far carried only the state of Wisconsin, with California added, granting that the present poll has a somewhat larger percentage of error in favor of the Republicans than was shown in the smaller poll of 1920."

"A Democratic paper finds in the registration of the previous affiliations of the poll voters, which is now given as 1,076,905 Republicans to 411,251 Democrats, a sign that no Democrat could possibly win in the poll."

"It may be said, also, that no Democrat can win in the election unless a considerable number of the Republicans of 1920 change their politics."

Citizens Divided
"The citizenry of the country was divided, roughly, in 1920 between 16,000,000 Republicans and 9,000,000 Democratic voters, with only a small third-party vote, less than 1,000,000 for the Socialist candidate to complicate the issue. What shifts, then, are now being made from Republican to Democratic ranks, or from Democratic to Republican, that will show that the verdict of 1920 is to be reversed, or repeated?"

"A glance at the table comparing the 1920 and 1924 columns, shows a Republican increase in thirty-two of the states, while sixteen show a decreasing Republican vote. Ten states, on the other hand, show a Democratic increase over 1920 while a loss in the Democratic vote during the last four years in indicated in thirty-eight states. Some of these gains and losses are very large, some so small as to mean little."

"Among the more significant changes there appear to have been Republican losses in Iowa, Illinois, Pennsylvania, California, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Republican gains are indicated in many of the states of the 'Solid South,' where such increases will, in all probability, have no effect on the election whatever, and also in Kansas, in New York, and in Michigan. Aside from ordinarily Democratic states, the Democrats appear to have increased their voting strength in West Virginia."

In presenting the views of Republican and Democratic editors on the general accuracy of their polls The Digest concludes with the comment of a Nebraska editor:

"No straw-man," the editor states, "is actually satisfactory to the losing side. However, The Digest vote in 1920 was amazingly accurate and if we remember right, there was the same doubting on the part of the same editors."

At The Movies

Laughs, thrills, an occasional sob, and more laughs are the ingredients that make "In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter," at the Eltinge Theatre, one of the most entertaining and pleasing pictures of the year.

In this second screen venture of the famous partners, Abe and Mawie go into the motion picture business and it is the complications that result from their attempts to produce a picture starring a vamp, a picture that produces the hilariously funny comedy situations. Of course the wives of the partners do not approve of the vamp idea, nor is the situation simplified when the bank refuses to extend more credit at a critical moment.

The intense loyalty of one partner for another prompts Abe to take a wild automobile ride to save Mawie, and Director Alfred E. Green has packed into this ride thrills galore. And every thrill ends in a laugh.

Samuel Goldwyn, who produced "In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter," is the contributor materially to the success of his picture when he secured the services of Montague Glass, creator of the original characters, to write the brilliantly humorous titles which distinguish this picture. Much credit is also due Frances Marion for her splendidly constructed screen play, which she adapted from Glass' successful play, "Business Before Pleasure."

CAPITOL

A singular tribute was paid to J. Barney Sherry, who plays the part of Gen. Robert E. Lee in "The War of Virginia," by the officers at Camp Travis, the largest military reservation in the country and by city officials and citizens of San Antonio, Texas, who assigned to him the place of honor last Armistice day. Mr. Sherry, in his make up as Gen. Lee, at the request of army officers and city officials, led the parade of more than twenty thousand people. He was escorted by Gen. Buck who has one of the most enviable war records of the officers at the post. Cheers greeted him throughout the line of march.

"The Warrens of Virginia" will be shown at the Capitol Theatre for a days run, opening Monday. It is a William Fox production, directed by Elmer Clifton.

He was alone at the time and it was not until later when his sons returned from threshing that he could be rushed to Mandan to a physician. Two of his ribs on the left side were badly broken, and a third one cracked and he sustained severe bruises about the head and body.

JOHN W. DAVIS VOTE RISES IN DIGEST'S POLL

Democratic Presidential Candidate Makes Sharp Gains in Week's Totals

OTHER CHANGES MADE

John W. Davis has increased his percentage of the popular and electoral college vote in this week's return of The Literary Digest's poll. The Digest's poll is based on the return of the four great states, which received, this week, the Digest's poll. The Digest's poll is based on the return of the four great states, which received, this week, the Digest's poll. The Digest's poll is based on the return of the four great states, which received, this week, the Digest's poll.

Lafollette is still holding Wisconsin while Davis has increased his leadership in eleven states and President Coolidge is ahead in the other thirty-three states. Lafollette is second choice in twenty-eight states with Davis second in thirteen. In Kentucky and Oklahoma, the Democratic candidate is crowding the Republican standard bearer closely and Lafollette has gained slightly on the President in California in the week's tabulations.

Democratic Rise
The Democratic percentage has been expected to rise still further with succeeding returns. The Digest predicts, "Since the states in which Democratic strength is concentrated are among the last to report."

"Mr. Coolidge's spokesman, notwithstanding his statement of acceptance, has explained that the Democratic campaign is showing signs of being a campaign with the candidates of Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Lafollette, and therefore, it may be considered to the advantage of the Democrats that their strong holds are being held from comparatively late in the poll."

"This fact may compensate for any advantage given the Republicans by the strong Coolidge showing in the states from which returns were first received."

"Both Democratic and Progressive publishers have argued that The Digest's poll tends to favor Republican candidates by approximately 10 percent, and several editors produce figures from previous polls to back up their argument. The alleged percentage of error of course, may or may not exist, but it is not worth that, even granting its existence, it would make a change in the political complexion of only three states."

"Of course, it would be true to say from the Coolidge and the Lafollette column, Kentucky and Oklahoma would go to the Democrats and West Virginia, Mr. Davis' home state would swing actually a tie vote between Coolidge and Davis."

Feature of Voting
"A feature of the voting in California is that, since the tabulation published a week ago, Coolidge has received 5,119 to Lafollette's 4,651, a report on which is to indicate a slight rise, for the week at least."

"The question as to the source of Mr. Lafollette's strength, whether it came from the ranks of the Progressive party or from the ranks of the Democratic party, continues to stir a good many of the political prophets and disbelievers."
"In consulting the table of 'How the Same Voters Voted in 1920,' one observer of the poll has called attention to the large size of the 'Did Not Vote' column. In this column it must be explained, is included both those who specify that they did not vote and those who fail to report in their political allegiance in 1920."

"A more complicated tabulation in the Digest's poll shows that in 1920, the total of nearly 2,000,000 vote, Coolidge had 1,060,211, Davis 81,206, Lafollette 1,42,900, which expressed in percentages show 56 per cent Republican, 29 per cent Democratic and almost 15 per cent Did not vote."

Locals Play At Mandan; Not In Good Shape

Bismarck High School's football team met Mandan's eleven in that city this afternoon. The local eleven was not in good shape for the tilt, as a result of injuries sustained in the Minot game, and was further weakened last night when Moses was ruled ineligible for the game. McFarland of Jamestown was chosen referee, Borse of Bismarck named umpire and McCurdy of Washburn chosen for head linesman.

LANDIS CALLS YDE TO TELL ABOUT REPORT

Pittsburgh Player Said To Have Declared He Knew About Bribery Deal

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Emil Yde, Pittsburgh National League pitcher, has been summoned by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, to appear before him with any information he may have concerning the Jimmy O'Connell-Cozy Dolan affair. The commissioner's action was attributed to Yde in which he was quoted as saying "something more sensational may be sprung shortly."

At his home in Freeport, Illinois, Yde issued a statement in which he denied having made any statement regarding the teams of his contract with the Pittsburgh club or the position of any players of the Pittsburgh club before a game with New York or any other team.

Commissioner Landis said he was anxious to get facts which might lead to finding any other who might have been involved.

"I want to know whether the expulsion from organized baseball of Dolan and O'Connell has cleared up the matter," he said.

BAND CONCERT
NETS $150 TO JUVENILE BAND

Work Among Youngsters of City Helped by Concert, Without Hard Drive

More than $150 was realized last evening at the Benefit Concert of the Bismarck Juvenile Band. There was no intensive drive on the ticket sale, the band members conducting the "whole show" themselves in the general policy adopted in having the band "earn its own way." There should have been a greater crowd to encourage these young musicians who put on a most delightful entertainment showing marked improvement over previous performances.

This concert, however, is merely a curtain raiser for the real benefit to be staged at the Auditorium, November 4, when under the auspices of the Association of Commerce an election night entertainment will be given. Four acts of vaudeville on route through Bismarck to coast cities have been booked. Election returns will be posted and the band will play several numbers. It is planned to make this a real community affair. Teams will canvass the city and it is hoped enough will be secured through this effort to put the band through until spring.

That the Bismarck Juvenile Band is winning a place in the hearts of music lovers was shown last evening by the applause given the efforts. The vocal solos by Henry Halverson to band accompaniment were especially good. Members of the band caught the spirit of the two songs, "The Sunshine of Your Smile" and "Smilin' Thru" and the audience clapped for more.

The cornet duet, "Tranquility" by Sidney Rigler and Joyce Moule was very well done. Despite the fact that the band is slightly more than a year old and many members have only been in the band a few months, a most creditable showing is being made under the direction of L. C. Sothen.

More than $150 was realized last evening at the Benefit Concert of the Bismarck Juvenile Band. There was no intensive drive on the ticket sale, the band members conducting the "whole show" themselves in the general policy adopted in having the band "earn its own way." There should have been a greater crowd to encourage these young musicians who put on a most delightful entertainment showing marked improvement over previous performances.

This concert, however, is merely a curtain raiser for the real benefit to be staged at the Auditorium, November 4, when under the auspices of the Association of Commerce an election night entertainment will be given. Four acts of vaudeville on route through Bismarck to coast cities have been booked. Election returns will be posted and the band will play several numbers. It is planned to make this a real community affair. Teams will canvass the city and it is hoped enough will be secured through this effort to put the band through until spring.

That the Bismarck Juvenile Band is winning a place in the hearts of music lovers was shown last evening by the applause given the efforts. The vocal solos by Henry Halverson to band accompaniment were especially good. Members of the band caught the spirit of the two songs, "The Sunshine of Your Smile" and "Smilin' Thru" and the audience clapped for more.

The cornet duet, "Tranquility" by Sidney Rigler and Joyce Moule was very well done. Despite the fact that the band is slightly more than a year old and many members have only been in the band a few months, a most creditable showing is being made under the direction of L. C. Sothen.

CUPLER HEADS N. D. BAR BODY

Bismarck Attorney Is Named Vice-President

Jamestown, N. D., Oct. 17.—A. W. Cupler, of Fargo, was the unanimous choice of the state bar association for president, C. L. Young, of Bismarck, was unanimously elected vice-president and R. E. Wenzel, Bismarck, was unanimously re-elected secretary-treasurer for another year of the North Dakota State Bar Association which ended its sessions here last night. Judge C. A. Pollock of Fargo placed the name of Mr. Cupler before the convention. J. T. F. O'Connor, Grand Forks, was the first to nominate R. E. Wenzel. Both Mr. Cupler and Mr. Young responded to the call by short speeches.

There was considerable competition as to who would get the floor first in extending the invitation from their home associations for the next meeting of the state association and T. D. Casey beat the gun a trifle with an invitation to Dickinson, with Judge Goss, Minot, and Wm. Green, Fargo, tied several breaths behind. Invitations were extended from Dickinson, Minot, Fargo, Grand Forks, Williston and Bismarck and the selection of the next year meeting place will be up to the executive committee at its next meeting. President Nordal informed the gentlemen extending the invitations that, by the rule of the association, a written invitation must be sent to the executive committee from the inviting city's chamber of commerce and city government.

MRS. CARSON DIES IN WEST

Former Pioneer Resident of City Passes Away

Mrs. Alexander Cameron, a former pioneer resident of Bismarck, passed away October 16 at the home of her daughter Mrs. W. D. Wood, at the Hotel Barron, in Vancouver, British Columbia, according to word received by her sister, Mrs. Mary McLean.

Mrs. Cameron was taken suddenly ill in the spring, when her sister Mrs. McLean, was called to Vancouver by wire, and remained there for over a year. When her sister's condition seemed to improve she returned to Bismarck thinking she might recover, but she gradually grew weaker until the end came yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron both lived in Bismarck, and on a farm near the city of Bismarck on what is now known as the E. G. Patterson farm. Many of the old pioneers will remember the Camerons.

Some of the younger set of the early days, when the Camerons lived on the farm, will recall a sleigh ride, composed of young people from Bismarck, who drove down to their farm one fine winter evening, and were obliged to remain till morning, on account of a blizzard coming up suddenly. The time was spent in singing songs, and telling stories.

Mrs. Jane Falconer Cameron, was born in the Province of Ontario, Canada, June First 1842, and was 82 years and three months and 16 days old at the time of her death. Three brothers and four sisters survive. W. A. Falconer, and Mrs. Mary McLean of Bismarck, D. A. Falconer of Lincoln, Township, N. D.; Mrs. Robert Macnider of Salem, Oregon; Mrs. Thomas Gilbert of Spokane, Washington; Mrs. John White of Vancouver, B. C.; Mr. Norman Falconer of Aromas, California. Mr. Cameron died several years ago. The only member of Mrs. Camerons family now living, is Mrs. W. D. Wood of Vancouver, B. C. Mr. and Mrs. Wood who keep the Barron Hotel in Vancouver.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists call it "Joint-Ease" because it's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaky Joints Only.

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint-Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble. —A— dispense it daily for about 60 cents a tube, as do first class druggists everywhere. Always remember, when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick. Mail orders filled, cash or C. O. D., Pope Laboratories, Hallowell, Maine. —Adv.

"Right" Means "Go" To Your Telephone Operator

Trained runners, keenly alert, eager to leap in a spirited dash to the goal, await the crack of the pistol to start them off in the race.

In like manner, your telephone operator, after repeating the number you call, is alert for your acknowledgment before speeding your call through the maze of wire and other equipment to the person you want.

By saying "Right," if your number is repeated correctly, you let her know that she has understood the number. But if your operator repeats the number incorrectly, a wrong number is avoided by saying, "No," and giving her the number again.

The thoughtful cooperation of each telephone user makes the service more valuable to all.
